

When everyone is enlightened

By Geneviève Gougon

What would life on earth be like when we are fully enlightened? Is knowing about the connection with our Universe, Source, Creator, or however you call the greater force, inevitable when we learn to use all our capabilities as a human being beyond what we know now? What we now see for instance as paranormal abilities and higher consciousness could well be our natural way of being.

Below a brief scenario of what our world could be like when we all evolve to the state of enlightenment concerning our perception, occupation, daily activities, money, ego, health, body, our relationship with nature and our scientific progress.

Even if today our world may be divided in many ways I believe we are all evolving towards a mutual goal of heightened awareness. There is an obvious evolution going on. As an effect of struggle against or reluctance to adept to new ways, we also see a de-evolution going on at the same time in our world. My focus below is purely on the positive.

And so the story goes...

When everyone is enlightened we are all living our life's purpose. Because we are connected to the Universe there is room and opportunity for each and every one of us to achieve that. We don't have to engineer a structure or system to make this possible. The Universe has the ability to let everything fall in its right order and come together, so that everyone can live their life's desire.

Because our consciousness is connected to the Universe and we understand the workings of our being and what it is capable of, we also know that we can use our intuition since we are highly intuitive beings. Just like the animals we also share our nature with. Our intuition leads us well. We are also conscious beings, working together with the higher energies around us. Because of this evolution we've been through, everyone is perfectly balanced. Our nature is empathic, respecting and appreciative of one another. We are all healthy human beings, conscious that we exist as part of the Cosmic whole. Our goal is just to be. To live the balanced state that we are in.

We progress in science, finding and accepting the very truths we discover about our world and ourselves. We progress in exploring the earth we live on in the depths of its oceans, on its surface and deep in its core. We do all this without disrupting the balance. We are advanced when it comes to exploring our galaxy. We have made connections with other beings who are part of existence.

Our bodies are fully developed. In previous states we were still a seed, using only a small part of our abilities. Now we've become strong and fully grown plants in the height of our continuing blossoming. Aware that we are not only physical bodies, we use all our senses. We can heal ourselves in the rare occasion that it might be needed, we consciously collaborate with nature, we communicate not only by using words, but also telepathically.

In addition to the developments we have made regarding our minds, physically our glands are now also activated to aid us spiritually. These glands correspond with our chakras and are for example the pineal gland, also called the third eye, and the thyroid gland. We have discovered that other parts of our bodies have a spiritual function as well. In the medical world we regard the other layers of our bodies as important as we would our physical body now. We give as much attention and nurture to these layers we know of as the spiritual body, the mental body, the emotional body and the etheric body. We understand that we are more than just our physical body. We also come to understand that we can go beyond the layers the current spiritual world knows about and transcend the material world. We know that we are made of the substance of love and that all things are love.

We are doing what we are good at and love doing it. We work with passion and sense of purpose. There is no division between private life and work since we find pleasure in doing our work. All blend perfectly together according to our own need. Everyone's effort is meaningful and contributes to the whole. The Universe allows all the pieces to fit together so there is something everyone can do as long as they are doing it out of love and it is done freely. We use our talents and full potential.

Freedom and harmony are the greatest assets when we are all enlightened. Everyone and every being has the sense of freedom without exception. Because we are in harmony, one man's freedom doesn't stand in the way of the other's. It is simply not possible and because of our enlightened state, what we all want is to keep the balance and do the positive. Light is all there is. We get our knowledge directly from the Source and we are all connected to this database we can access whenever we need.

We are no longer anchorless ships on an ocean when it comes to the events happening in our lives. We understand how energy works and know we manifest our realities and we have full knowledge of how we do that. We have arrived in the era of all consuming light and love. Freedom, abundance, love and harmony is our gift from the Universe.

All beings in this world are respected and have everything they need and want. Your request can never disturb the equilibrium, since all things fit together. If you want something it's there. We give to and receive from each other in love. There is no need for money, yet no one is denied anything. We function entirely according to our nature. By collaborating with each other we participate in our world. If someone doesn't want to participate, it is also fine, because his action is part of the collaboration. Our higher conscious is our engine. We experience only what helps us forward in peace and love. There is fairness in our interactions and old ways based on ego are no longer effective. We learn from each other and the Universe. We understand why things happen as they do and our hearts are always content and fulfilled. We lack nothing.
