

Plenty vs. scarcity

Life on earth is nothing more than a collective manifestation of thoughts. This is the way everything comes in to existence, with a thought. This is also the way the human being came to be, who in turn designed his life on earth from a thought. What many people don't know is that this manifestation of earth life, which is generally accepted by the majority of people, is merely an illusion. An illusion formed with the means of "scarcity-thinking". When mankind designed this world, he started building out off the idea that everything is limited and only so much is possible and no more. So the majority of the world was created from out of the ego-self, indirectly driven by fear. It'd funny when you realise that for children so much more is possible. But then at some point the conditioning according to measures of society, starts playing a role, so that almost all the innate features suddenly disappear.

But back to scarcity thinking. If one creates out of this mindset, one will stay limited. Thoughts that are an example of scarcity thinking may be: "I don't have the money", I will never achieve this or that", "I can't do that or that" and so on and so on. Generally speaking this kind of thinking can be seen on a platform where there is no love, light, harmony and goodness in it's many forms. The scarcity situation starts becoming real the minute you think the scarcity thought. The same is true the other way around with a positive thought.

Scarcity thinking comes out of disconnection with the Source God and the human's higher-self. The opposite of scarcity thinking I call the "thought of plenty". There were times when people were more connected with the Source and knew what the potential of the human was and is. Because of the world the way it is created by mankind, maybe since the beginning of the human race, this connection has weakened or even dissipated in many cases. What ever the situation may be, the human can let go of the Source but the Source doesn't let go of the human (in most cases). This makes it always possible for the human to reconnect or tightened the connection. One way of doing so is by realizing that we don't have to live in a world in which want and fear are dominating, but that we have fully potential to turn things around.

Someone may postulate that life has to take shape by the means of situations in which hardship and want play a part or they may say that we need fear for our own safety to keep us from dangerous situations. This is true in earth reality, but not in the divine truth reality. The thing is about how you interpret this "want" or hardship. And in case of the dangerous situation, those simply do not exist or you learn to look at them another way when you start living in divine truth reality. By learning to look at things differently from the divine reality, you will start to notice that much which you thought of as hardship or bad situations are no more than experiences taking you from one to the next experience in life.

How does one develop the insight to look beyond earth illusion? This proces takes place by the unveiling of your consciousness. From layer to layer the veils, which are blocking people's view of the greater picture, may start dropping. The earths' illusion reality is tenacious. It's sometimes hard to believe it's an illusion, mainly because most people tent to go with the flow and society in general is build on earth reality. It is not from one day to another that most people are able to lift up their veils and start living in divine truth reality, When one embarks on this road one must do this with complete dedication and trust in the Source. And be sure of victory, because you cannot loose what has always been yours to keep. The human kind formed one entity with God, then another form was made for him, which made him walk a different path from the Source. That is why it's mankind's birthright to live in love, light and harmony. Though it takes some willingness to take the first stap. Other than that it's important to be constantly aware of what is exactly the divine truth reality and what is earth illusion reality and keeping in sight the laws of the Universe. I see the Universe as the "executive director" of the spiritual logistics, to put in in earthly terms. Even more important it to keep the connection with Above (God, Universe and the divine) a healthy one by prayer and meditation. Eventually this will all be normal and just is what it is and continues to be effortlessly. In this state of being you will attract that which is made to fit you and all that you need. Scarcity or want in earthly terms will then be history, because everything will be taken care of. It's the humankind who thought he could fully take controle in the form of his ego-self, without taking his higher-self and the Source into consideration. Humankind was right to think he could take controle, but without connection with the higher-self, which in a way is the Source or part of the Source, you create from a limited mind. Greater and more beautiful things can be manifested when we are willing to let go.
